

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

1839 Awards Honors Mauro De Bettio in its 2025 Photographer of the Year Contest

The 1839 Awards has announced the winners of its 2025 Photographer of the Year Contest.

The winning images at this year's contest illuminate the remarkable originality and diversity within our global fine art photography community. With exceptional talent and fresh perspectives, these images defy convention and open new horizons for the artistic possibilities of the medium.

With that in mind, we are excited to extend a huge congratulations to Mauro De Bettio for emerging as a winner at the 2025 Photographer of the Year Contest. The artists who received the top honors at this year's edition are at the pinnacle of photographic artistry.

Our jury included judges from Phaidon Press, Dwell, Vanity Fair, the Whitney Museum of American Art (NY), Artsy, and others, offering a range of perspectives from the highest echelons of the creative photography world.

Please join us in congratulating Mauro De Bettio for receiving the following honors at the 2025 Photographer of the Year Contest:

Photographer of the Year Storytelling

"Venice of Africa"

About the 1839 Awards:

1839 Awards, named after one of the most formative years in the history of photography, is a contest and platform celebrating the art of photography and all those who continue to explore the medium's capabilities.

Title:

"Venice of Africa"

Category:

Storytelling

Award:

 Photographer of the Year